

Support the KURDS in the liberated Syrian areas

Help Build an Organic Agricultural College in Kobané

Vast areas of the North Western Syria/Rojava, have been liberated from ISIS by the Kurdish population, though with massive sacrifices. These areas very much needs to be reconstructed.

A group of Danish organic farmers sympathizers and Kurds has in August 2015 founded an organization to develop an Organic Agriculture College project in cooperation with The International Kurdish Coordination Comity “Reconstruction Board of Kobané”.

The goals are:

- To build a small organic agricultural college in the Rojava province.
- To develop an international organic farming education in the Kurdish language.
- To include an exchange of knowledge about work environment, renewable energy, organic building materials and cooperatives.
- To produce organic food to be sold locally from the school.

The education will be developed as an international organic farming education in cooperation with Kalø Økologiske Landbrugsskole in Denmark (Kalø Organic Agricultural College) and the Kurdish authorities. Attempts will be made to raise funding internationally so that the Kurdish scholars can attend a semester in Denmark.

All funds are controlled by “Økologisk Rojava” Denmark (“Organic Rojava”) and will flow uncut towards the establishing of the organic agricultural college and other related projects in the province of Rojava.
